Equipment for ATEX zone

Hürner Italia stands out for its exceptional customer support, which goes beyond simply managing product-related issues. We don't just sell innovative, high-quality components; we create value by providing ongoing and dedicated support to meet our customers' every need. Our mission is not only to sell components but also to use them to 'tailor-make' custom solutions that perfectly suit our customers' requirements. Hürner Italia's customer support is a cornerstone of our customer relationships, and this latest example is a testament to that. The Dosage Box featured in this press release, both functional and aesthetically pleasing, was entirely manufactured using products from our catalog (easily accessible online at www.hurner.it). Our customer requested this essential component for their plant, and we designed and built it in our workshop. This Box (made of PPSEL, suitable for ATEX zones) will enable our customer to accurately dose and mix various chemicals for their production process. By leveraging our products and expertise, we have successfully addressed a critical need for our customer.

This is yet another example of Hürner Italia's commitment to excellence.
